

The Authors

Hana J. Cai is a conductor, pianist, and singer based in Ithaca, NY. She currently serves on the faculty at Ithaca College as an Assistant Professor of Conducting in the Performance Study Department.

William Culverhouse is Director of Choral Activities and Assistant Professor of Music at Binghamton University, where he directs the Harpur Chorale, Treble Chorus, Chamber Singers, and University Chorus.

Angelica Dunsavage is Director of Choirs at Tennessee State University, joining the faculty there in fall, 2021. Her writing has appeared in the Choral Journal and The Choral Scholar, and she will be presenting a poster session entitled Applications of Alexander Technique to Undergraduate Conducting at the NCCO National Conference in January 2022.

Jonathan Harvey is Assistant Professor of Music and Director of Choirs at Fitchburg State University in Fitchburg, MA. He also serves as the Music Director of the Brattleboro Concert Choir and the Brattleboro Camerata, both in Brattleboro, VT.

C. Michael Porter is Associate Professor of Music and the Director of Choral Activities at Boise State University, where he conducts the Boise State Meistersingers, University Singers, and Vox Angelis.